

Kaishian, Bio

Regina Kaishian, EdD, serves as the Assistant Superintendent for Pupil Personnel Services at the Arlington Central School District. Dr. Kaishian is also an Adjunct Professor at Bank Street College in the Future School Leaders Academy and at Fordham University in the Special Education Leadership Institute.

Her career in education is guided by a passion for ensuring all students have access to a quality education. Dr. Kaishian strives to limit barriers, proactively design more equitable systems, and understand the complexities of disability to ensure every student has the tools they need to self-actualize and thrive.

Previously, Dr. Kaishian was the Director of Pupil Personnel Services at the Haldane Central School District, where she oversaw a comprehensive audit of the department with a focus on the delivery of special education services and student outcomes. Before entering administration, she served for many years as a School Psychologist and as an Adjunct Professor in the master's level School Psychology program at Mercy University. Her career began as a teacher in the New York City Department of Education.

Dr. Kaishian holds a Doctorate in Educational Leadership, Administration, and Policy from Fordham University, a Master of Science in School Psychology from Mercy University, and a Bachelor of Science in Psychology from Fordham University.

Outside of her professional life, Dr. Kaishian enjoys spending time with her family, being outdoors, cooking, traveling, and learning new things.
